#3 - Where is the Light?

Welcome to The Light Report. These are transmissions from spirit, or higher self, with the intent of helping us live a more meaningful and productive human existence, while also ascending to our greater state of being.

When the Light seems to dismiss us, it's often because we're exploring other ways of being in the world. Then, when we're ready to accept it again, the light returns and we find ourselves moving new energy through our bodies and expressing ourselves in new ways. This is the time of great awakening here, and as such there's a lot of new energy coming through to this plane. It's as if a great door has been opened and new energy is coming in everywhere. Yet, we may feel as if we're stranded on an island and the energy can't reach us. It's the time we take stock of our circumstances, to see if we need to explore new options, or merely wait for certainty to return. Mostly these days, it's a case of waiting for the time to be right. Much is changing here and we're all part of it; timing is a very critical thing.

The Light follows patterns, those created by us as individuals and by the human race in general. It comes to each of us when we're ready for it and goes someplace else when we stop focusing on it. It's a constant flow of energy throughout the universe, lighting places that need it. Yet, light is always around us when we want it. We must only remember that we're each full of light; it's all around us. When we reach out to others who share the light with us, we receive the blessings of all beings who are of the light. If you want to see yourself full of light, you need only to imagine that you're able to bring light to you, then do it. Light goes where it needs to be, and where it's wanted. By wanting the light, you accept yourself as a light-being, and you free yourself of any misery and tension that's kept you from light.

Your essential reality is one of light. You carry light and universal love within you. You may use that light however you choose; be all you choose to be; clear out all that isn't light. You're done with all old realities once you let go of the past. You can be all you came here to be as soon as you forget what you're not. It's time to let go of the past and be that which you are entirely. Shine the light on those around you and you'll find your own life circumstances improving. Shine light everywhere you go and all those around you will benefit equally from the light. If you refuse to hold back your own light, you'll find others sharing light with you. It's all here for the sharing.

Distress follows those who withhold their light from others. Distress and calamity are the result of being afraid to give yourself to others. Withholding joy and light from oneself also withholds it from others. Give yourself and others light and joy, and you'll find those around you giving more of it to you. You basically get what your soul wants for you, if you allow it. Withhold light and you'll feel depressed, cut off from your greater reality. Withhold light and you'll find your body suffering, your mind suffering, your soul suffering. Give light fully and openly and you'll be rewarded with all the light the universe has to offer you.

There is no shortage of Light here or anyplace in reality. All one need do is open to the light and let it shine through oneself; the light will flow there unabated. Light is the answer to everything, and it's available to everyone all the time. It's available for the asking, here or anywhere, now and always. Shine on!

Until next time, I wish you much light in your life!
